

Action Industries Continuing to Expand Already Unmatched Range of Garage Door Products

Cleveland – April XX, 2011 – Action Industries offers an extensive line of weatherseals, fasteners, hardware and garage door accessories. The company is frequently adding new products and expanding offerings to the garage door industry. Engineers at Action Industries are constantly developing new products based on customer specifications or to address various needs in the garage door industry.

Action Industries' unmatched range of products includes thresholds, aluminum retainers, stop moulding, dock kits, cable products and brushes. New product development is a cornerstone of the company, and two of Action Industries' best-selling products were developed in-house by company engineers.

Specializing in complex extrusions, which can be processed into a variety of thermoplastic resins, Action Industries' production capabilities and knowledge ensures parts are manufactured with the proper design and material and will be to the exact specifications. Action Industries also creates custom plastic extrusion and fabrication for particular application needs.

“Action Industries is constantly working with professionals to develop and add new products to our already extensive line of parts for the garage door industry,” said Vice President of Operations Marc Calcaterra. “Action has expanded its offerings from weather seals and weather stripping to a wide range of fasteners, brushes, accessories and more. If there is a part you can't find in our catalog, our engineers can develop a prototype and produce the right part for almost any need.”

Action Industries' tooling is designed and manufactured in-house, saving customers time and money. Routine maintenance on tooling ensures quality for the life of an extrusion program. The company's goal is to produce a correct part on the first run.

To learn more about all of the product offerings from Action Industries, visit www.action-ind.com. If you don't see the part that you are looking for, contact an Action representative. Action Industries will do the research and development needed to produce the appropriate solution for any garage door requirement you may have.

###

Action Industries, Ltd. is a privately held designer, manufacturer and distributor of a wide range of products for the garage door industry including weatherseals, door hardware, accessories, fasteners, brushes, aluminum retainers, dock kits and cable products. The Company was founded in 1980 and is headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio. For more information, visit www.action-ind.com.